FORESTS &
GARDENS

Working Woods Field Day

When: Saturday, June 1st

Where: Working Woods at the Holden Arboretum

Who: Landowners, natural resource professionals, land managers, anyone interested in forests in Northeast Ohio

Would you like to see what good forest management practices look like in 'real time'? Would you like an opportunity to talk with land managers and natural resource professionals about your woodland stewardship concerns?

Join us at Working Woods for our annual open-house opportunity where the demonstration forest is open to the public for guided tours, updates on ongoing research, and other resources including professionals from ODNR Division of Forestry and regional natural resource agencies who will be on hand to address your questions and provide materials.

Tours through the woods will include:

- 5-year-old timber harvest site
- Edge-feathering and habitat improvements
- American Chestnut plantings
- Forest farming: mushroom log cultivation, high-value botanicals and food-producing shrubs
- Research/updates on forest pests and pathogens
- Invasive plant management strategies
- Timber stand improvement thinning
- Forest pest and pathogen updates
- NEW this year:
 - New resources on best-practices for Ramps harvesting
 - Low-impact trail-building
 - Air-drying lumber and chainsaw mill demonstration

Morning and afternoon tours will be offered. Register at holdenfg.org/classes/holden-arboretum/working-woods-field-day/
